

Assist. Prof. Beril ÖZER TEKİN

Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Department of Sociology Doğuř University

After completing high school education at Howard High School in the USA with AFS (American Field Service) scholarship in 2006, I received my bachelor's degree in 2010, my master's degree in 2013 and my Ph.D. degree in 2018 from Sociology at Ankara University. I attended doctoral seminars titled "Consumption, Capitalism and Everyday Life" at the University of Oslo, Center for Environment and Development in 2014. I have been working with various organizations on "Social Impact Assessment" in energy and environmental investment Projects since 2010.

I have been working on national and international projects related to the urban and environmental issues, individuals with special need and womens studies. Presented my studies on national and international organisations, I have book chapters, articles and journal articles in various fields. My main focus areas are "environmental sociology", "urban sociology", "sustainable development", "cittaslow movement" and "consumption sociology". I am currently teaching at Doğuř University, Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Department of Sociology as an assistant professor.